About this Provider

The mission of University of Tennessee Southern's Grissom School of Education is the development of education professionals who are prepared to participate in professional, social, and technological change; who are committed to lifelong learning, service, and continuing professional development through inquiry and reflective practice; and who work in partnership with a range of constituents to effect change at the local level.

The University of Tennessee Southern, Grissom School of Education has been instrumental not only in fulfilling the campus mission, but also in meeting the needs of a rural region, preparing educators for K-12 schools in the south-central Tennessee counties, 12 of which are classified as poor and rural. The School of Education has provided reflective educators prepared for service who are passionate about making a difference in the lives of K-12 students. UT Southern prepares candidates through the Grow Your Own program, job-embedded pathway as well as traditional teacher preparation training. Because of its location, the UT Southern SOE is dedicated to increasing opportunities for first-generation candidates. The SOE is committed to building a faculty that reflects a broad range of perspectives through thoughtful hiring and expanding candidates' exposure to a wide range of experiences (e.g., guest speakers, field experiences, etc.). A commitment to mattering and belonging means fostering an environment where all individuals feel respected, heard, and empowered to succeed.
